1	Top of front page, "We Believe in Democracy" Extraordinarily secretive; no names listed	2	2
1	Focus outside of U.S. Supportive of school reform but nothing explicitly linked to Trump adm policies	2	2
1	Critical post by Kramer but no specific program Nothing on web site on threat to ACA! This is a health-related foundation. A mild tweet criticized proposed	2	2
1	Medicaid cuts Progressive agenda; major program on racial healing. Yet neutral and even notes that Donald Trump has spoken out about racial division. Oy! Greatest focus on religion Very strong on need to work on climate change but no mention of bad government policy; support to nonprofits that may be more aggressive Doesn't seem to be a web site Clear statement of support for NEH, NEA and clearly	2	2
1	opposed to Trump cuts Statement opposing travel ban on front page Web site focuses on touting grantees' findings Focus on medical research. No mention of ACA Another strong save the environment emphasis with no acknowledgment of Washington's role. Same with their descriptions of health care for elderly. Go out their way to ignore government. Not a program per se but it's clear that it's open to grant	2	2
1	applications that would contest administration Science meets Christianity is the heart of their pupose. Board chair a committed environmentalist but nothing here on Trump adm Nothing much on web site Not much of a web site; just links to annual reports; emphasis on food security Globalist vision doesn't seem to included need to discuss U.S. policymaking. It's like the Foundation is operating in an alt-universe where U.S. is irrelevant		0
1	It's web site, like so many, is neutred politically. The tweets are from the Cargill company and are strongly supportive of free trade
